BEATDOWN

"Back in the day when I owned the Ferrari with the alligator-skin interior, I picked up a hitchhiker who wore a hand-painted T-shirt so you couldn't tell she was so well endowed." —Ed Riggins

1 The Count and Countess Von Dreck prove that good hair is timeless. 2 Gary Baseman hung around like a meat piñata at his La Luz de Jesus show in LA, October. 3 Former Replacement Chris Mars (with gallery owner Kellie Rae Theiss and friend Queeve) blew minds at his Kellie Rae Theiss Gallery opening in October, Minneapolis. 4 Mark Ryden proves that big boys can play with dolls. 5 Diedre and Tina: two great reasons to drink at The Standard, downtown LA. 6 Tommy Chong fired up the crowd (and a few other things) at his ghetto-gloss opening in November, LA.

"Do you mean I gave Robert all those blowjobs for nothing?" —Georganne Deen

"I don't act like a gallery director is supposed to act like, because I don't know how." —Laurie Steelink
